2. Ensure you have quorum to carry out the business of the meeting (refer to Roberts Rules of Order)
3. Follow Roberts Rules of Order for your meeting.
E.g.: Approve the minutes from the previous meeting. Voting is done by one member making a motion, which is then seconded by another member. The chair then calls for a vote. Some groups accept verbal voting, while others require a counting of raised hands for and against the motion.
4. Proceed through the agenda. Robert's Rules allow the chair to limit discussion.
An Agenda usually includes the following information:
 1. Call to order
 2. Record names of all in attendance
 3. Motion for approval of the Agenda
 4. Motion for approval of the Previous Meeting Minutes
 5. Reports presented
 6. Committee Reports
 7. Old Business – Items outstanding from the last meeting
 8. New Business – New Items
 9. Round Table Discussion – Items that need clarification
 10. Adjournment – motion to end the meeting

ARTICLE VI: ELECTIONS

- 6.1 Election of Executive Officers shall be called by and supervised by the (Faculty Advisor), who shall act as Chief Returning Officer (CRO).

*The CRO officiates election procedures. As well as chairing the actual voting procedures, the CRO guards against slander and unsportsmanlike conduct and has the power to disqualify candidates engaging in inappropriate behavior.

- 6.2 The Chief Returning Officer shall:

6.2.1 Receive all nominations prior to the election.

6.2.2 Adjudicate all rules and procedures.

*There are two basic ways you can deal with the actual election. It is easier to deal with election during one meeting, either with a show of hands or with secret ballots. The following outlines how to do these two approaches.

- 6.3 Upon commencement of the meeting, and opening of nominations, the CRO shall accept verbal nominations from the floor. Once all nominations have been received, and each candidate has accepted the nominations, each candidate shall have the option to make a brief presentation. The candidates shall then leave the room and a vote shall be conducted with the show of hands.

- 6.4 The CRO shall announce who the successful candidates are when all candidates are asked to return. A successful candidate is one who has the most votes.
- 6.5 In the event that only one nomination for a position is forthcoming, a “yes/no” vote will be taken. If the candidate obtains a simple majority of votes, he/she shall secure the position by acclamation.
- 6.6 In the event that elections shall be by secret ballot, the CRO shall acquire the election ballots and scrutineers.
*A scrutineer is someone who represents a candidate to verify the election count is fair and accurate.
- 6.7 The CRO shall cast his/her ballot before the election begins. This ballot shall be kept in a sealed envelope in a safe place and shall be opened only in the event of a tie. The CRO shall destroy his/her ballot if it is not required in the election.
- 6.8 The CRO shall call for the vote and collect all ballots, which will be taken away for the official counting of ballots with scrutineers.
- 6.9 The CRO shall announce the results of the election.
- 6.10 The CRO shall destroy all ballots after votes have been counted and after the contestation period is over. (E.g. 24 hours).
- 6.11 Contestation of the election must be submitted in writing to the CRO within 24 hours of the announcement of the election results.
- 6.12 The CRO shall take appropriate remedial action in the event of any violation of the election rules and procedures.
- 6.13 A Yes/No vote shall be taken in the event that only one nomination is forthcoming. The position shall be filled by acclamation if candidate receives a simple majority of votes cast in his/her favor.

ARTICLE VII: VACANCIES

*In the event that an elected position becomes vacant, the following articles outline the procedures to fill it.

- 7.1 Should a vacancy occur in an elected position, prior to the annual election meeting the position shall be filled by an interim appointment at an executive meeting.
- 7.2 The position shall be filled by appointment by the candidate who receives a two-thirds (2/3) vote of approval of those executive members in attendance.
